Arizona's Capitol Tree Set to Stop in Glendale for Centennial Celebration

The public is invited to join Glendale's Mayor and Council, a representative from Arizona's Capitol Tree Committee and students from Glendale High School and Landmark Middle School as we honor the first-ever capitol Christmas tree from Arizona as it stops in Glendale on its journey to Washington, D.C.

The Capitol Tree, making its way through the Valley on its way from the Apache-Sitgreaves National Forest to the Capitol in Washington, D.C., will stop for a visit in Glendale as part of Glendale's Centennial Celebration. Students, who have created ornaments to travel with the capitol tree to Washington, will also decorate the Glendale Glitters Centennial tree, with Santa Claus on hand to help out.

The stop is scheduled for:

Thursday, Nov. 12
1:30-2 p.m.
Murphy Park in Downtown Glendale
58th and Glendale avenues
(south side of park – tree will be parked along north side of Glendale Avenue)
